Death Came After a Brief Illness at His Home in Chesterfield.

News Briefs.

Manchester Bureau, Richmond Times, 1113 Hull Street, Beattie Block.

Mr. M. A. Cogbill, for many years clerk of the County Court of Chesterfield, died at his home near the courthouse, after a brief illness.

The death of Mr. Cogbill has cast a gloom over the entire county and city of Manchester. He had been the clerk of the County Court since 1874 and before that he was deputy for his brother, the late Nathan H. Cogbill.

He was born in the county and was in the fifty-eighth year of his age.

His uncle, Tilghman Cogbill, who was clerk of the Circuit Court of Chesterfield at the beginning of the war, raised a company of infantry at the Courthouse, in which company M. A. Cogbill was a private. This company belonged to the fourteenth Virginia Infantry, Armistead's Brigade, Pickett's Division. They lost their gallant captain at Gettysburg, he having been killed with his brave and immortal commander, the heroic Armistead, in that famous charge.

AS A SOLDIER.

At this battle, M. A. Cogbill, who was then the color-bearer of the Fourteenth, carried his colors at the head of the charge across and beyond the historic "stone wall," and was at the side of General Armistead when he fell, and although the flag-staff was cut in two and fell from his hand, he recovered the flag and bore it through the entire charge. He was wounded at this battle, but was not captured. At the battle of Drewry's Bluff, May 16, 1864, whilst again carrying the colors of his regiment, in the act of vaulting the enemy's breastworks, he was shot in the right eye and left for dead on the field, but recovered.

He was afterwards promoted to lieutenant of his company.
This horrible wound, which destroyed his right eye, gave him a great deal of pain and trouble, but he suffered from it to the day of his death.

No braver soldier ever followed immortal comrades or fought in an immortal cause, and when the history of the valor and achievement of M. A. Cogbill is written, this deeds will materially add to the lustre of its fame.

As a clerk, he was honest, capable and accommodating. The people had in him not only a valued and trusted public servant, but likewise a friend and helper.
He will be missed as much for his fatherly advice to all classes of the people of Chesterfield county, as he will for the conscientious discharge of public duty as county clerk.

HIS FAMILY.

He married Mrs. Emma V. Moody, daughter of the late James M. Perdue, of Manchester. Mr. Cogbill was the uncle of Mr. Herbert Cogbill, a merchant at the Courthouse and a cousin of Hon. Phil.
V. Cogbill, Commonwealth's Attorney of Chesterfield county. He was the last of his generation and universally popular and beloved. He connected himself many years ago with the Methodist Church, and largely through his efforts the church at the Courthouse was built. He will be missed as an officer, husband and citizen. In all the attributes of Christian manhood, he measured up to the highest standard. He leaves a widow but no children.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral will take place at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning from Trinity Church at Chesterfield Courthouse. The remains will then be brought to Richmond by the afternoon train and interred in Hollywood. The following have been selected as the honorary pall-bearers: Messrs.
William Wash, E. W. Welsinger, R. P.
Smith and George C. Cornick. From the

P. Jones, Charles E. Dancy and Thomas Decker. From the Village Street Church-field and Manchester—Judge B. A. Han-

John H. Ingram, Judge J. M. Gregory, tman, H. B. Duval and Asa L. Adams.

The active pall-bearers will be members

MISS BRANDIS ILL.

Miss Lottie Brandis is quite ill at her home, No. 805 Bainbridge Street. She has been confined to her room for the last week and was said not to be so well last night.

BALDWIN-OWENS.

Mr. A. P. Baldwin and Miss Alma Owens were married last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, No. 1207 West Twelfth Street, a very pretty marriage was solemnized when Miss Caroline, the only daughter, was joined in holy wedlock to Mr. W. G.
Green, of this city.

The announcement of the wedding will be read with a great deal of surprise, as no invitations were issued, and the closest friends of the young couple were kept in ignorance of the event, which was happily kept a secret. Wednesday night at 7 o'clock the bridal party entered the wedding parlor.

Mr. Green was attended by his best man Mr. Wm. J. Morrisett, and the bride by Miss Lullie Krengle. This couple entered first, and standing to the right and left, the bride and groom entered, and only in the presence of the immediate family of the bride and the attendants.

They were pronounced man and wife by the Rev. S. R. Maxwell, of the Third Christian Church, Richmond.

The bride is a very pretty brunette and is the accomplished organist of the Christian Church of this city. She was becomingly attired in a traveling suit of brown and her hat and gloves also matched.

Mr. Green is one of the city's young business men, of the firm of John & Green, and is regarded among our most worthy citizens. He has been the chorister of the Christian Church for several years.

After the ceremony the happy couple left on the 7:45 or Washington, where they will spend a few days, after which they will return and reside in this city.
Their many friends bespeak for them a happy and useful life.

TOOLS STOLEN.

The blacksmith shop of Mr. John Gill, on the corner of Seventh and Bainbridge Streets, was broken into Tuesday night and several sledge-hammers and other tools taken.

It is thought the men who entered the Standard Oil Company's office also took the tools from Mr. Gill's shop. A sledgehammer was used by the men, also a crow-bar.

As a clerk, he was honest, capable and accommodating. The people had in him
not only a valued and trusted public servant, but likewise a friend and helper.
